VOL. LX. No. 49. REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1921 ESTABLISHED 1859

HORACE B. GARDINER ROBBED AGAIN THIS WEEK

It would appear that the Horace B. Gardiner haberdashery is becoming popular among burglars. That fraternity has already robbed it four times within a year and a half. Whether it is the quality of goods kept by Mr. Gardiner or the easy access to the building that attract the robbers is a question. However it is true that the store has been a mark for highwaymen.

Friday night another attempt was made to loot the place.

Nightwatchman Joseph Roza in making his rounds discovered two young men in the building removing articles from the shelving. This was before 11 o'clock. The moment they caught sight of the officer they made a dash for the rear door. Roza ran around the corner of the First National Bank building, intersepting the burglars as they ran past the old Chamberlain store. The officer fired at the fleeing thieves. They ran to cover ,one underneath the wharf close by and the other took refuge in the old Chamberlain stable. By this time Roza was reinforced by City Marshal Collins and nightwatchman P. Larrecou. The robbers were soon surrounded and captured. They were taken to the county jail where they gave the names of A. Woodruff and S. Miller. The latter is 17 and the former 15. The lads are from Texas. They are amateurs at the business. They only intended to take enough clothes for their own use. They had two suits, two overcoats, sweaters and underclothing packed up ready to remove when they were seen. They effected an entrance through the rear door. Both boys regret their crime and are thoroughly penitant.

SEQUOIANS LOST CHAMPIONSHIP BY SCORE OF 34 TO 14

The Unlimited basket-ball team of Sequoia High School just missed winnig the championship of the P. A. L. Wednesday by losing the final game to Campbell by a score of 34 to 14. The Redwood lads were compelled to play the game on an outside dirt court after having practiced and played all season on an inside wooden court.

The team was composed of the following: Forwards, Lodi, Deluchi, Britschgi; center, Robertson and Drivon; guards, Kreiss and Eva.

During the game the play waxed so hot that Lodi was compelled to quit after a straight arm in the jaw and Robertson took the count after receiving a solar plexus blow from the shoulder of one of the Campbell boys.

Altogether it was a real basketball game and the Redwood lads played every minute of the time. They made the first score and the last score and let the victors know that they were playing. If the game had been played inside, the result might have been different. A large aggregation from Redwood City went down to see the contest.

Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Stevens, whose birthdays occur almost on the same date, were given a surprise party Thursday evening by their friends in the parlors of the Congregational church.

After prayer meeting the Reverend Stevens and his wife were called into the parlors on some pretense or other and were amazed to see all their friends there ready to help celebrate the anniversary of their birth. C. M. Doxsee made the congratulatory speech in which he spoke of the good work being done by the popular pastor and wished him and his faithful wife many more years of usefulness. Mr. Stevens responded appropriately and feelingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were the recipents of numerous precious gifts from those present.

After congratulations were exchanged a nice musical program was rendered for the edification of all. Ice cream and cake were served to the hundred persons who participated in the happy event.

BEAR GULCH WATER PEOPLE WANT TO BE EXEMPT FROM TAXATINON

The attorneys for the regents of the State University McCutchen, Willard, Mannon and Greene, yesterday filed a long affidavit in the office of County Assessor D. P. Flynn, asking that all the property of the Bear Gulch Water company in San Mateo county be exempted from taxation in accordance with article 13, section one of the constitution, which exempts all public property from taxation. Heretofore the University only owned four-fifths of the capital stock of the company but it recently purchased the other one-fifth from the Charles N. Felton estate company The assessed value of the property of the water company in this county is nearly $500,000. It consists of vast tracts of land in the foot-hills at Portola, water rights, miles of pipe lines, dams and reservoirs, etc.

Taking this property from the tax rolls of the third township will create a hardship for the assessor who has to make up the deficiency in raising the assessments on othe rproperty in this township. The assessment on the land here is already high but in order to equalize the new assessment the assessor is confronted with a serious problem. It will be difficult to place this extra amount on the property of the township to the satisfaction of land owners.

Several large exemptions have taken place in the county during the past few years and more are anticipated so that those lands remaining out of the exempted zone will have to pay the piper.

Many years ago Miss Jane Flood, only daughter of James Flood, the Comstock King, gave the beautiful Flood mansion and several hundred acres of land at Menlo Park, four-fifths of the Bear Gulch company's stock and other property in the county to the State University.

For a time it was believed that the institution would esablish a dairy school at Menlo Park but the project fell through. The people of Menlo Park at one time had the members of the State Legislature visit the place and entertained them on the grounds. For some reason or other the scheme was abandoned.

Years later Mr. James L. Flood, brother of the donor, bought the attractive home back from the State University together with the surrounding land. A portion of marsh land is still the property of the university. Mr. Flood's home is one of the show places of the state. The building cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Many of the interior rooms were furnished in hard woods imported from Europe. The beautiful grounds are in keeping with the building.

The Bear Gulch Water company furnishes water to the people of Menlo Park, and all the wealthy residents of that place and Atherton. It is a profitable institution.

The late Senator C. N. Felton organized the company in the seventies to supply water to those localities, spending much energy, time and money in doing so. He was an enterprising, patriotic man who desired to do something for the people of Menlo Park. He accomplished his purpose.

FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS TO START AGAINST AIRCRAFT CORPORATION

The indorsers of the Christofferson Aircraft Company's note met at the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday night to discuss the proposition of foreclosing on the property which consists of a building and three acres of land on the Lynch tract near town. About thirty of the fifty indorsers were present and agreed to begin foreclosure proceedings on the plant at once.

The building was recently occupied by the Aniline Dye Company which has valuable machinery in the building. The members of the company cannot agree among themseles so it became necessary to dispose of the property as a big manufacturing concern of San Francisco wants the plant to start manufacturing at once. The amount of the note is $10,000 but the property is worth double that sum.

The plant is strictly modern and is valuable and sought after by a number of concerns eager to buy it.

Two thousand cases of the shipment were taken from the warehouse of the local plant. Other large consignments are to be sent out from here in a few weeks.

Miss Helen Fromm is recovering from a severe illness caused from poison oak. She is convalencent.

Compte Edward O'Connell, one of Redwood City's popular young men, left on Friday of last week on the Pacific Mail Steamship boat Wolverine State bound for India and other Far East ports. He holds a responsible position on the vessel. He expects to be gone for four months. Mr. O'Connell is going to make a study of the Far East and on his return will give his impressions of that wonderful country in a series of articles to appear in the Times-Gazette.

A little girl named Russel who lives at the corner of Phelps and Walnut streets had a narrow escape from death Tuesday afternoon. The little Miss was skating to town on an errand. Just as she passed the door of Flynn's garage a machine drove out. The driver didn't see the girl. She couldn't get out of the way. She was knocked into the street clear of the front wheels but rolled over under the machine and a rear wheel passed over her shoulders. She was taken to a local physician who bound up the wounds on her head and gave other treatment. Outside of a badly cut head the young lady is apparently no worse for her experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Tisdale of Baker City, Oregon, who have been occupying the Pipkin apartments on Jefferson avenue for the past three months left on Monday for San Francisco where they will stay for some time before returning north.

Miss Ethel Richardson, deputy state superintendent of schools was in San Mateo county Thursday and Friday visiting schools with County Superintendent Roy W. Cloud. Miss Richardson has charge of the Americanization work in the state office and tries to visit all the schools of California where there are children of foreign parentage. She is a young lady of very pleasing personality and saw much to praise in our county educational system.

Miss Sara T. Fry a former resident of this city who has been engaged in goat culture on the coastside of the county has been in Redwood City this week visiting friends. Miss Fry contemplates purchasing property in either Redwood City or Menlo Park so that she may again reside in this locality.

Mr. H. Rupp who has been agent for the Essex and Hudson automobiles in Redwood City contemplates leaving with his family for Long Beach where he expects to enter business. The Rupps made a number of friends while here who regret to see them move to the Southern City.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stewart of Petaluma last Sunday evening. The mother was formerly Miss Florence Woodhams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H Woodhams of this city. Mr. Stewart is also well-known here. The sad news reached here yesterday that the little girl cannot live and may die at any moment. This will be a severe blow to the young couple.

Wednesday evening Lee Pipkin was host at Thomas' to the basketball team of Sequoia Union High school, with which he is connected. Ice cream specials and other delicacies were served the members. The team recently won a game from the high school aggregation of San Mateo which game made a tie with Campbell. The event was celebrated in this way by Mr. Pipkin who is an admirer of the prowess of the local team.

HALFMOON BAY MAN DISMISSED AFTER ALL-DAY HEARING

The court room of Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin Thursday was filled to the doors all day while the preliminary hearing of Pietro Marcchi Halfmoon Bay rancher, charged with an attack upon a fourteen-year-old Indian girl residing near his ranch, was held.

Residents of Halfmoon Bay were much interested in the case afid yesterday morning a great many journeyed to Redwood City to attend the hearing.

The girl's story on the witness stand did not correspond to accounts of the attack which she had formerly given to the officers and the district attorney in man particulars. The greater part of the day was taken up with the testimony of 32 witnesses for the defense, many of whom testified to the good reputation of the defendant and the bad reputation of the girl.

At the conclusion of the testimony Attorney Hall C. Ross for the defendant made an eloquent appeal for dismissal on behalf of his client basing his argument on the fact that the testimony of the complaining witness had been discredited. District Attorney Swart did not oppose the motion, and Judge Griffin refused to hold Marcchi for the higher court.

The girl is at the present time a ward of the county at the county farm, undergoing treatment for a serious malady.

RAILROAD TRAIN PROVES TOO MUCH FOR A FORD

It is said that some people are born under a lucky star, whether this is so or not there is one man in Redwood City who is a firm believer in the theory and his name is C. Johnstone, local gas superintendent for the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Thursday afternoon while attempting to cross the railroad tracks on Cedar street near J. B. Perry's warehouse in his Ford automobile he miraculously escaped instant death. A freight train was passing northward at the time and as he was about to cross the track the 1:30 o'clock south bound train dashed by, crashing into the Ford. The impact caused the machine to stand almost on end. Then another jolt from the train threw it from the track, all the time Johnstone clung to the wheel. He escaped without a scratch but the auto was a wreck. The local Ford dealer, D. M. Flynn, says that if Johnstone had been in any other machine but a Ford he would have been by this time singing with the angels.

WATER

By J. L. Strang, Redwood City.

While visiting the office of the weekly
Times-Gazette,
The editor said good copy was something hard to get;
And I wish you'd write a poem with ideas bright and new,
Make it snappy, make it breezy, just a lin o' type or two,

I sat down with my pencil, but the muse was hard to win,
The question that appalled me, where on earth should I begin,
Then finally a line I wrote and ended
it with water,
But the only thing that seemed to rhyme was the word that hadn't otter.

Then the editor concluded my poetry was punk,
And their paper wouldn't print such literary junk,
I made a mighty effort to make the darn thing rhyme,
But was told to go forget it, I was wasting time.

Now the word was simply water and water has no kick,
And since we've been "Volsteaded"
by the body politic
The word is not attractive, they hate to think of water,
Some people will not drink i, and other hadn't otter.

Some use the stuff to wash in, and some to sail their ships,
And some to keep the goldfish from having cateliptic fits,
Some with suicide intent go madly diving in,
Some for Sacramental purposes to take away their sin.

And still it is unpopular, for Volstead made it so,
But there's a place where it is needed, sev'ral thousand miles below,
Where the wail goes up from parched throats the sad wail water, water,
And Volsteads sure to go there, but we others hadn't otter.

S. M. SHORTRIDGE NOW UNITED STATES SENATOR

It certainly was a proud moment for Mr. Samuel M. Shortridge when he took the oath of office as United States Senator at Washington yesterday. His life's dream was realized, the ambition of his career from early manhood became satisfied as he marched down the Senate aisle to make the solemn promises to uphold the constitution of his country.

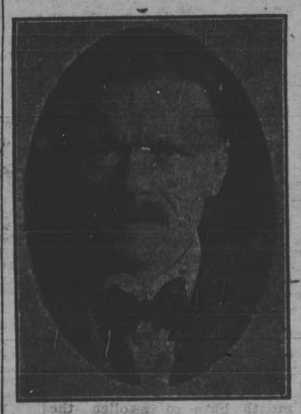
It must have been gratifying to him as he looked over that vast assemblage of great men with whom he will be associated and also to recall that grand galaxy of patriots who sat in the Senate in by-gone days, stirring the world with their eloquence and by their wisdom helped to make this country the greatest grandest nation on earth, beloved and feared by every people under the sun.

Mr. Shortridge's eloquent voice will be heard in that august body in behalf of his beloved California. The people of the Golden State may rest contented that they will have in him an able, wise and trustworthy representative. Their interests are in good hands. The state may feel proud of him and he certainly reflects credit upon the commonwealth.

R. H. McCORMACK STRONG FAVORITE FOR THE OFFICE OF U. S. DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Now that the Republican administration is intrenched at the White House the distribution of the loaves and fishes will soon begin by President Harding. The slogan has gone forth from Washington and also from the leaders of the Republican party in California that none but those who worked for the success of the party at the late election, and of course have the required ability, need apply for positions. Many will come but few will be chosen for the leaders know the men who worked and helped carry the banner of Republicanism to success at the last campaign.

One of the very important offices in San Francisco to be shortly filled is that of the United States attorney for the Northern District of California. Robert H. McCormack, the well-known San Francisco lawyer, is a candidate for that position. No attorney in the state is better equipped for the performance of the duties of that office than he. He is learned in the law and has had a long and varied experience in court work. Mr. McCormick for twenty-one years reported the proceedings of the superior court of San Francisco for the daily papers, the stories being always relied upon by both the attorneys and judges for their accuracy and clearness. He has the reputation of being the best posted man on court procedure in San Francisco. He is an encyclopedia of information on these matters. Since retiring from the newspaper work, Mr. McCormack has devoted his time to the law to which he has brought a fund of knowledge gained by real experience in the courts and which could not be secured in any other way He has appeared in numerous important lawsuits, displaying wonderful ability and tact in their management, always showing splendid legal acumen and a grasp of knotty legal entanglements rarely possessed by lawyers. Mr. McCormack is certainly well qualified for the position for which he aspires. No man has more friends and no appointment will be more popular.



ROBERT H. McCORMACK

The Republican party of California owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. McCormack for the great work he did during the last campaign. He was state manager for Samuel M. Shortridge, the Republican candidate for the United States Senate, maintaining a publicity bureau in San Francisco. Mr. McCormack worked both night and day sending out snappy literature urging the Republicans to stand by their guns and not falter in their fealty to their party. No angle was too difficult for him to overcome, no opposition too great to surmount. Nothing was left undone by him to bring success to his candidate and to his party. Not only did Mr. McCormack manage both campaigns for Mr. Shortridge last year but six years ago he managed the Shortridge primary campaign, which, owing to the disruption of the Republican party in the State, was not successful.

For the splendid work done by Mr. McCormack he is entitled to the recognition of the Republican party of California. No man has done more for the party or accomplished more for its success than he. It is admitted by all that he contributed more to the success of Mr. Shortridge than any other man in the State. He certainly was a factor in making Mr. Shortridge Senator.

Senator Hiram Johnson is an admirer of Mr. McCormack and will be behind him in his aspirations.

Mr. McCormack has the qualifications, did the work, and is deserving recognition at the hands of Republican party.

PRESIDENT HARDING TAKES THE OATH OF OFFICE

President Warren G. Harding, who began his duties as chief executive of the country yesterday, is confronted with many grave problems. No president has ever entered upon the discharge of his duties with greater tasks before him.

To him falls the work of readjusting the affairs of the country after the world war. The people look to him to bring them out of the chaos to which the country has fallen by the mistakes of the Wilson administration. Mr. Harding is a capable earnest, patriotic man, who is able to solve the great problems that confront the United States. He has shown wisdom in his selection of a cabinet. He has gathered about him strong, efficient, experienced and able statesmen who will assist him in his great work.

Mr. Harding's inaugural address yesterday is an assurance of his capability in handling the big affairs of the country. The ringing, patriotic speech, thrills every citizen who loves the Stars and Stripes and who loves the land of his birth.

Let every citizen, be he Republican or Democrat, co-operate with the great president in his efforts to make this country the best, the grandest, the greatest and the most humane of any under God's sunlight.

THE MAN OF STRAW

Setting up a straw man and then knocking it down with much display of courage and strength has long been one of the tricks of demagogues. Instead of fighting real men and real issues, they set up false issues which they can easily destroy, and then expect the world to believe they have accomplished something worth while. This sort of thing has been characteristic of the proponents of the league of nations, the advocates of debt cancellation and a lot of other people who are always taking the anti-American view of public questions. Here, for instance, is a prominent newspaper asserting with great flourish:

"It is plain that Europe cannot pay its huge debt to this government and its people, if it cannot trade with us. * * It is equally plain or should be, that the United States cannot permanently refuse association with Europe in the settlement of problems which are mutual."

The straw man in this assertion—the false assumption—is that the United States ever proposed either to refuse to buy European goods or to confer with European nations in the settlement of "mutual" problems The United States has not taken the attitude indicated in either instance, so the assertion quoted above is not germane to any current discussion of real public questions.

The United States does not propose to erect an absolute barrier to the importation of foreign goods. It does not propose prohibitory tariffs. All it proposes is an import duty which shall represent the difference in cost of production here and in other countries, so thta the American producer shall not be destroyed by the cheap labor and low standards of living of Europe and Asia. This has been stated so many times that no man need be in doubt as to the American attitude of the Republican party. We are willing Europe shall pay her debts partly in goods and services but not in a free market which would be ruinous to the American producer.

Neither has the United States ever proposed to refuse all association with other nations in the settlement of mutual problems. On the contrary from the foundation of the government, we have appointed representatives of this government to all the other civilized nations of the earth for the very purpose of settling mutual problems. We were pioneers in the arbitration movement and were participants in the Hague conferences. We shall continue to confer with other nations for the promotion of peace, justice and general welfare.

The purpose of statements such as that quoted above is perfectly clear—to create the impression that the United States must choose between free trade and cessation of foreign purchases, between isolation and the league of nations. No such choice need be made. We can have a protective tariff that is not a prohibitive tariff—we can negotiate with other nations without making the "supreme sacrifice" to a league dominated by Great Britain or any other nation.

Setting up and destroying false issues may deceive a few people, but, judging by the outcome of the last election, it won't deceive many.

PRESIDENTIAL FACTS

Warren G. Harding, who took office yesterday as the twenty-ninth president of the United States, is the first president to be elected to that high office on his birthday. He was 55 years old November 2, 1920. He is the first United States Senator elected to the presidency.

President Harding is the seventh president contributed to the country by the State of Ohio. Only Virginia, with a total of eight presidents born within her borders, outranks Ohio in this regard. No president has been born west of Ohio. No president has resided west of Illinois.

President Harding is the seventh president of Scotch-Irish parternal ancestry. Fifteen of our presidents, over the period of 133 years, have been of English decent, three of Scotch, one of Welsh and two of Dutch.

The average age of our presidents at inauguration is 54 years, approximately, while the approximate average at death has been 66 years.

President Harding exemplifies the rapid rise possible in American life better than any of his predecessors. He was not included in the 1914-15 "Who's-Who."

Like many of his predecessors also, has parents were not wealthy and he has risen to the highest office within the gift of the American people through frugality, industry and thrift, of which he is a warm exponent, as evidenced by his recent approval of the Government's Thrift and Savings work, represented in the sales of Thrift, Treasury and War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates.

THE BANZAI JAZZ

Japan has started in with characteristic thoroughness on the Nipponizing, so to speak, of the former German Pacific islands over which she is the mandatory. All the natives were required to join in the recent anniversary of the founding of the Japanese dynasty. "The exercises closed," reads the report, "with the singing of the Japanese national anthem, everyone joining, including the native children, who had been taught the words and music in the Japanese schools." The league theory of mandates was that the countries would eventually be turned back to their native owners. Does anybody suppose that these islands will ever become the property of any other country than Japan?

Eggs have dropped to about 40 cents a dozen. Next thing you know the hens will be petitioning Congress to the effect that they can't afford to waste their time at the price.

The old-fashioned woman who used to boast that she made her own petticoats, now has a daughter who doesn't use any.

DUCK HUNTING REMINISENCES

Story No. 32.

By Claude Fox.

Shortly after Fred Stalter and myself had furnished the ducks with which Judge Bicknell celebrated the birth of his namesake, we decided that we would launch out into a broader field for the disposition of our game. We were killing large numbers of the web foots, and while we did it chiefly for pleasure, with no idea of pecuniary gain, we concluded that we had been ordinary duck peddlers long enough and that there was an opportunity open to us to replenish our supply of shot and powder to such an extent that we could lay in a sufficient amount to last us during the entire season. In other words we decided to become duck merchants. Louis Werder and Charlie Peterson were then hunting for the market and shipping all their birds to San Francisco and we saw no reason why we could not do the same and get better returns than by selling the ducks around town to individuals. We would broaden out our sphere of activity and probably had visions of some day controlling the wild duck market. It was a great idea, so we thought, but one which did not linger long within our minds. Schemes of men, we knew, often failed, but we little thought that the foundation upon which we had built our hopes and dreams of a business career in the duck hunting line would be so utterly destroyed at one fell blow.

We were obtaining at that time ten cents each for teal, twelve and one-half for widgeon, fifty cents for mallard and canvasback, while spoonbill, could hardly be given away. There were no sprig here in those days and that splendid duck, which has since at times become somewhat plentiful, did not put in its appearance in the waters of the bay until the large salt industries were established on the Alameda county side.

The selling of wild ducks then was not prohibited, but in later years an unjust obnoxious law was slipped through the Legislature of this state which precludes the poorer or middle class of people from enjoying a wild duck dinner.

If you are able today to escape the vigilant eyes of the deputy game wardens, as well as those of a detestable informer and spotter who was recently discovered in our city, you will be able to dispose of your web foots at a fancy price, sprig and canvasback bringing twelve dollars a dozen, teal six dollars, while widgeon and the heretofore despised spoonbill will net you nine dollars, but take it from me, beware of the spotter, who is nursing his sore spots by sacrificing what little manhood he ever possessed.

Well, Fred and I branched out, or rather we thought we did. We became partners and decided to ship our ducks to a San Francisco commission man. A supposed friend of ours, who has passed on, was to act as an agent between us and the commission house. I will not disturbe the mortal remains of either by revealing their identity, but if both are now languishing in the fiery pit into which we are told all sinners must eventually inhabit, I can truthfully say for Fred and myself there will be no regrets on our part. After hunting for three day and nights in an endeavor to make as large a shipment as possible we were the proud possessors of nine dozen birds. They were a mixed lot but all about the average in condition. Fred had killed a couple of mallard which were in the bunch, and we figured in our boyhood ignorance, not having had any experience with agents and commission men, that we would net at least twenty dollars on the shipment. What we were to do with all that money was the next consideration. A twenty-five pound can of powder and two sacks of shot had already been agreed upon to be purchased. How rich we would be in ammunition? About three days after shipping the birds the returns came on them. Our dreams of an ammunition supply vanished into thin air. They were classed as the poorest ducks that were ever placed on the San Francisco market. Some were checked off as spoiled, others shot badly. Then there were charges for express, deductions and commission to agent and way down on the lower end of the return slip was our dividend, six dollars and fifty cents. Our desire or dreams to control the wild duck market vanished quicker than they were born. Agents and commission men became as detestable to us as rattle snakes. On the back of the return card there was an underscored instruction to "ship no more." It was hardly necessary. We reluctantly settled back into our old vocation as wild duck peddlers, and on bright moonlight nights thereafter as we pursued the even tenor of our way seeking the wary birds of the marshland we often stopped to reason with each other why there was placed here with mortals such a being, if he could be called such, as the commission man to whom we had shipped one hundred and eighty of our prized web-foots for the acquisition of which we had made such sacrifices.

MENLO PARK NEWS OF ALL SORTS

The following marriage license was issued from the county clerk's office at Redwood City last week:

William Henry Crandall, aged 34, New York and Marjorie Lyon, aged 36, Menlo Park.

The Church of the Nativity is preparing for the annual St. Patrick's entertainment in the Hall of the Nativity on Wednesday evening, March 16. A splendid program of Irish comedy, Irish songs and melody will be presented on that evening that will certainly please all. Father Boyle, the noted California tenor, is to be present with his specialties. Thomas L. Lennon, son of Judge T. J. Lennon is to make a short address on the life and times of Ireland's patron saint. The program is to be replete with Irish Folk lore, Irish dances by experts, in fact the performance will be on Irish concert that is certain to entertain and please the large audience that is sure to be present that evening.

William Meyer, the electrician, has been awarded a contract to do the electrical work in the new Bear Gulch cottage. Mr. Meyer has all the work he can do. He gives his patrons a good service and his prices are right.

General Hunter Liggett who is soon to retire from the army and who was the first commander of Camp Fremont, was here during the week looking for the purchase of a home. The great hero of the World's War contemplates spending his remaining days in this community under his own vine and fig tree.

Judge Thomas F. Graham was a guest of Walter H. Linforth on Sunday last. The Judge is favorably mentioned for a position on the federal bench. It is likely that the incoming administration will select him for the district judgeship in San Francisco. He is an able jurist, a gentleman of the highest type and a man who would reflect credit upon the federal bench. His many friends in Menlo Park would be pleased to seen him secure the coveted plum.

J. H. Stewart formerly of Palo Alto has opened a new spacious billiard parlor and pool room in the Maloney Block on the highway. The place is called the Victory Palace. Mr. Stewart has a number of the latest stylse of tables and has a stock of temperance drinks, tobacco, cigars, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson, nee Brown, were luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. John MacBain on Tuesday. The Hendersons stop at the Wilshire hotel in San Ffancisco. The MacBains also entertained Miss Hazel and Miss Blanche Sullivan and Miss Anna Compton.

Lamar Clodfelter won first prize at the Artists Ball for the most original costume at the Community House at Palo Alto last Tuesday evening. He appeared as an Indian chief georgously dressed in the raiment of a Redman. Dr. Whitewolf prepared the young man, giving him his suit, watching every detail of the preparation and teaching him a war dance. Young Clodfelter made quite a hit at the ball and easily carried off the first prize. Many years ago Dr. Whitewolf was chief of the Apache Indians in Nevada.

Henry Smith has bene awarded a contract to paint the Bennett home near Santa Cruz avenue now owned by Mrs. Inmann. Mr. Smith has the contract also to paint the Walter H. Linforth residence on the Middlefield road.

Miss Frances Humphrey young dauhter of Edgar C. Humphrey, formerly of Menlo Park, was united in marriage to Arthur Lee Collins in San Francisco on Monday, February 14. The charming and pretty bride spent her girlhood here and graduated from Sequoia Union High school at Redwood City several years ago. She is highly accomplished and beautiful. Mr. Collins is an hydraulic engineer of high standing.

The new time schedule that goes into effect tomorrow is going to play havoc with the high school students. The train that arrives here from San Francisco at 3:25 o'clock p. m. is to be discontinued. The students will not be able to leave Redwood City until considerable time later.

During the season about to close John Tuttle, Wells Fargo agent here, has received 275,000 strawberry plants distributed to growers in and about Runnymede and the Sweeny ranch. Owing to the large acreage in berries this year housewives may look forward to low prices next summer when the fruit may be preserved. On account of the high price of sugar and the fruit last year very little was canned by individuals.

A cafeteria and lunch counter has been established on the highway near the Club Garage owned by John Beltramo for the accommodation of motorists that throng the highway on Saturday and Sunday.

On February tenth in New York twins, a son and daughter, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Haskell. Mrs. Haskell was formerly Miss Emma Laumeister, only daughter of Gus Laumeister of Palo Alto. She was born and raised in Menlo Park. Her grandmother, Jane Loveland, deceased, was postmaster of Menlo Park for many years.

Bishop and Mrs. W. F. Nichols were guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Montgomery Wednesday at Menlo Park. Bishop Nichols conducted the morning services at Trinity church.
